

THE TRUTHINESS EXPRESS #5

"IF IT'S TRUE FOR US, IT'S TRUE FOR YOU!"

Spy at Bushehr Actually Drunk Russian

The Truthiness Express has just received confirmation that the "attack" on the Bushehr facility was neither American malfeasance nor bungling. It was mere coincidence that the covert operative's after-hours snooping was simultaneous to Gen. Gorbachova's late-night tryst with a bottle of Moskovskaya.

It has also been confirmed that Gorbachova himself is at fault for the explosion, who after relieving the American of the photo of the First Daughters became confused and distraught in thinking the photo was his own, leading him thus to believe that unbeknownst to himself, he too was an American spy. Gorbachova proceeded to attempt a recitation of the US's pledge of allegiance, the effort involved in which caused him to lose consciousness and collapse into an unfortunately positioned pile of circuitry, triggering the explosion.

China Tries to Give Iran Enrichment Tech

An intercepted email has revealed a secret China-Iran agreement. Iran has agreed to give exclusive oil exportation rights to China for 5 years in exchange for Iran receiving petroleum enrichment technology. Whoa.

US Flip-Flops on Shoe Issue

After condemning the regrettable shoe-throwing incident at a previous plenary, the US had promised to go barefoot in protest. However, they showed up wearing shoes. Way to commit, guys.

When asked why they flip-flopped, the delegation simply responded with one word: "odor."

Radioactive Panda Deal Denied

China's head of state has denied their delegation permission to sell Russia and Iran radioactive pandas. While it is unclear why Russia and China would want radioactive pandas, they were both visibly disappointed when the deal fell through.

Editorial: "We just want respect!"

Journalism, the second-oldest profession on earth, and by far the most meritorious and noble, has been time and again degraded over the course of this conference. The staff of the Truthiness Express would like to express its extreme sense of betrayal that the international community would abuse so terribly the very institution that could have provided a voice for truth and justice. It may be that behavior from the entitled and mean-spirited delegates present will force the international media into action.
