

Greetings from Russki! We anticipate exceedingly cordial relations over the next few days. We are here to encourage compromise so that we may achieve an outcome amenable to all.

In the past, we have endorsed Iran's nuclear energy program, and we intend to continue doing so in the future. We have supplied to Iran equipment, materials, and training. We feel that this has garnered for us a significant degree of openness between our two nations. This has enabled us to supervise the development of a legitimate and responsible nuclear program. We hope that a similar level of permissiveness from the present nations would result in a stable situation.

We support Iran's nuclear energy program and endorse them from our position as their trading partner, as a global energy superpower, and as an experienced and mature nuclear capable nation.
