KIM JUNG IL IS BACK. LOL

In a shocking turn of events, the former supreme leader of North Korea has returned to rule the rogue nation—as a zombie. His son, Kim Jong-un, smiled reluctantly as his father crawled out of his tomb and demanded a meal of 두뇌 (or brains) served on a gold platter. "We all thought he died last December" claimed an anonymous source in the North Korean delegation, "but he is the savior of man kind, and we will join him in all his new, zombie-motivated endeavors." The undead prove a serious problem for the international community; after all, nuclear deterrence will not work on the resurrected North Korean dictator. Political scientist Daniel Drezner explains, "the use of nuclear weapons in particular would be a catastrophic mistake in a zombie-infested world. Ghouls cannot be deterred, stripping the one useful trait such weapons possess....the undead would survive any radioactive fallout from the nuclear blast, and zombies carrying lethal doses of radiation would pose a double threat to humans: death by radiation, or reanimation by zombie bite. If any government was so foolhardy as to launch a first strike, it would create the only thing worse than an army of the living dead: a mutant, radioactive army of the living dead" (Theories of International Politics and Zombies, 21).

In reaction to planned launch of the North Korean, one member of the Chinese delegation ate the entirety of the aid package promised to the North Koreans in protest. The North Koreans responded angrily, declaring that unless the Chinese were drinking Hennessy, nothing could stop there eternal race to the stars. This dramatic confrontation runs in the DEFECTION? OR DOUBLE MISDIRECTION?

It appears as though the Iranian Scientist that "defected" didn't defect at all. Instead it appears that the scientist employed the ancient technique known as the "Trojan Scientist-Defecting-to- the-existential-enemy Horse."

DPRK REMINDS CONFERENCE THAT KIM JUNG IL INVENTED THE BURGER & WANTS BURGER KING

It is a "fact" in North Korea that Kim Jong Il invented the hamburger. This "fact" is bolstered by evidence that Western influences such as McDonalds do not exist in the DPRK. Of course, Kim Jong Il invented the burger. In 2000 Kim Jong Il came up with the revolutionary idea to serve a

"double bread with meat". Unfortunately, this communist delicacy is not available to most people in the DPRK.

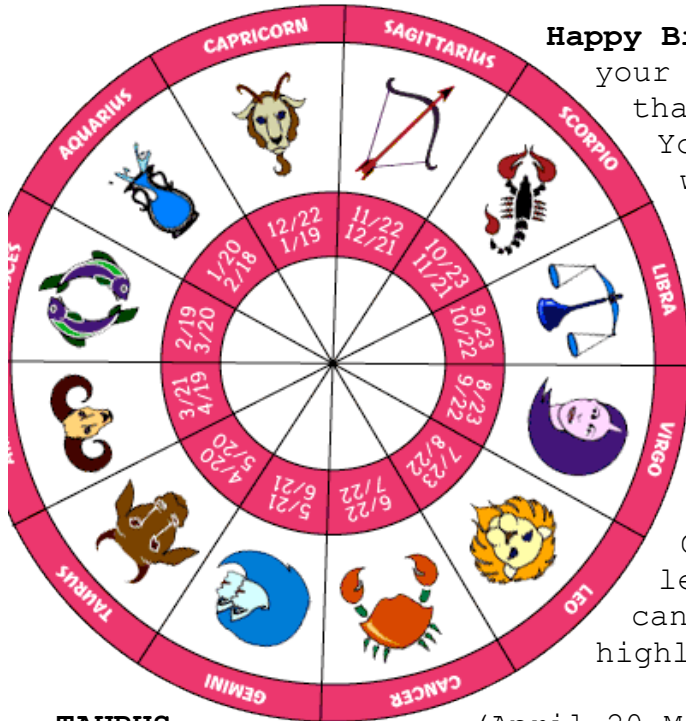

Kim Jong-Un has authorized DPRK delegation to taste test the Western Capitalist burgers of the United States. The DPRK delegation took some time off from negotiations last night to sample burgers from Burger King and Burgerville. A review of the two burger chains is pending.
